Postpone Community Sing

This afternoon after debating some time whether or not to repeat the Community Sing tonight in the Second Presbyterian church auditorium the committee in charge decided to postpone the sing on account of inclement weather. The committee waited until afternoon to see if the rain would stop but when the weather continued to rain the committee announced the postponement to a date to be decided upon later. Mrs. S. B. Timmons will again direct the choir when the sing is presented. It was an unqualified success last week when presented in the high school auditorium. A number of new songs will be given when the sing is repeated.

Captains of the various now existing teams, friends of the movement and people interested in the "Blue Girl" question are urged to lend their support by being present Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock promptly. The meeting is being announced in the schools and a goodly number of girls is expected to be present at the mass meeting. Excellent plans of new organization will be discussed. The Girl Scout Council, of which Mrs. E. C. Hood is Commissioner, and the following women members: Mrs. James W. G. Williams, Harriet Bush, William H. Sprague, Frank Allen, P. C. Wolfe, Paul Beatty, R. B. Finkbeiner, Louis Adams, Jr., Edward S. Gillman and Miss Edna Dawson; are actively interested in the formation of a No. 1 organization. Y. W. Pictures At Columbia

To add to the interesting publicity for the nation-wide Y. W. C. A. campaign to be held in February, pictures are being shown today at the Columbia. The picture being shown is "The Blue Triangle" which is a story of the war and the women who served in France, the center of the world's feelings—there the association has a strong work consisting of a great number of help for the Red Cross nurses, for the Industrial women, houses for signal corps and allied branches of the army women, and Hostess Houses for American women war-workers.

The machinery of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce is rapidly pushing the production stage. The new manager and his staff are busy engaged in installing the various office systems necessary to the proper conducting of the administrative affairs of the organization. Every activity of the new organization is conducted along well defined lines, and complete records are made for every separate item of the chamber work. The manager states that the office end of the work will be completely organized within a week or two.

In addition to the details already referred to, several important committee meetings have already been held, and a schedule of the major and minor planks of the program of work is being developed.

There were two important committee meetings held yesterday. The headquarters and equipment committee have selected a location for a permanent home for the chamber, details of which will be announced within a few days.

A special meeting of the board of directors was also held yesterday afternoon, in conjunction with the committee on headquarters and equipment, in order to receive the committee report and to authorize the next steps.

One of the most important meetings held thus far, also took place yesterday afternoon, when the committee on committees held its first session. This is one of the most important committees in the entire organization and is composed of Samuel Horvath, chairman; J. A. Bode, A. Ziegler, F. C. Fuller, Ralph S. Clark, J. E. Williams, G. D. Selby and C. M. Hoskins.

Every activity undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce is in charge of a committee. This committee is appointed to make a study of the problem in question and plan a definite course of action. Where the plan involved is too large to be carried out by the committee, the assistance of the membership at large, or as many as may be necessary, is successfully carried out the project, will be asked.

It will be seen, from the foregoing, that the work of the committee on committees is highly important, as it is their duty to select and recommend to the board of directors, for appointment, those best qualified to serve on various committees.

At the initial meeting yesterday, the personnel of these committees was discussed. The personnel of these committees will be announced after their acceptance by the board of directors at their next regular meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 23rd.

The committee on committees will hold another meeting this afternoon at 4 p. m., at which time a committee on education and several other important committees will be selected.

Immediately after the official appointment of these various committees by the board of directors, they will be called together and work started on their various projects. The manager is already hard at work collecting data for the use of the committees in aiding them in their tasks.

SOCIETY

James Cooper, of Upper Two Creek, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis in Hempstead hospital, is improving steadily and will soon be able to return to his home.

There are mass meetings and mass meetings, but the Girl Scout mass meeting at the Henry Massie school building Friday, at 4 o'clock, will be just a little out of the ordinary. It is to be the inauguration of Girl Scout life in Portsmouth under new patronage. The little girl question is being agitated, with the result that something will be done for the happiness and supervision of the girls from ten years of age and older who with bubbling energy and awakening perception are rather blundering into a more grown-up girlhood on gangling legs and with bobbing pig-tails.

At this age ideals of womanhood are being built. The Girl Scout movement is not athletics alone. All the activities of home life are introduced and stressed.

Mothers are asked to encourage their daughters to become Girl Scouts. The Girl Scout Council is composed of the following representative women of the city in furthering the movement. At this age ideals of womanhood are being built. The Girl Scout movement is not athletics alone. All the activities of home life are introduced and stressed.

"OLD FIRST" CHURCH DENIES "PARALYSIS"

While the rest of Portsmouth was recovering from the suggestion in the Go-To-Church ad-in last night's Times—that "the body of Christ" was "paralyzed," the congregation of "Old First" Church was listening to the initial report of its Masses Committee. At the conclusion of the report, the congregation rose to its feet and sang the long meter doxology, and all fear lest paralysis or senility had laid its fell hand on this time-honored church had forever vanished. Everyone knew that "Old First" was entering upon her second century of existence with the same vitality which marked her first.

SALARY OF SAFETY DIRECTOR BOOSTED BY CITY COUNCIL

Considerable "fireworks" marked a long and stormy session of City Council last night at which much business of importance was transacted in the way of legislation passed or put in the "hopper" for future passage.

A lively row was precipitated on the floor when Mayor William N. Galtman recommended the resignation of the Safety Director's salary to $12,000 a year and an increase to $200 a month of the superintendent, a total increase of $1,380 a year, after pointing out that the administrative branch of the city government had voluntarily taken from their budgets now being repaired salaries which would make a saving of $2,500, including the salary of a mayor's clerk which position was abolished. The mayor declared that if the Safety Director properly looked after his duties that the saving to the city will more than make up for the increase in service rendered in a few months time and he appealed for a chance to show what good results could be obtained with a real Safety Director on the job. Member Charles Schirrmann in opposing the mayor's plan asserted that he could give a competent man that would take the job at the present salary of $900 and when the Chief Executive demanded of him to name his man Schirrmann offered to resign as councilman and take the job himself. "Not on your life" he retorted the mayor and then followed a sharp tilt between the pair in which some warm talk was indulged in before a rap from the presiding officer put an end to the verbal clash. The matter was then thrashed out in the general discussion which followed after his duties that the saving to the city will more than make up for the increase in service rendered in a few months time and he appealed for a chance to show what good results could be obtained with a real Safety Director on the job. AND A ROARING TWO REEL SUNSHINE COMEDY

The John H. McGowan Co. suit now pending in Common Pleas court on a claim for approximately $42,000 as extras on its contract in connection with the construction of the water works. The attorneys in their recommendation stated that the contract provides that the finding and certificate of the engineer shall be final and binding. J. P. Winter having given the McGowan company a certificate to the effect that it had complied fully with the contract, and furnished all machinery and equipment called for, it was binding on the city. Member Westphal, who was the only member to oppose the ordinance, declared that the city did not get value received and pointed to the action of the old council in turning down the claim. He said he was still in favor of testing the matter out in court.

The matter of restoration of fire apparatus was discussed at some length and then referred to the fire committee. The committee and safety director, with instructions to bring in a report at the next meeting together with the necessary legislation to carry out the plans divided upon it. It was urged that the lack of adequate fire equipment, a condition brought about by the accident a few days ago, leaves the city practically unprotected from fire losses and it was pointed out that the situation is serious. A number of representatives of manufacturers of fire fighting equipment were on hand and addressed the council on the subject. A motion offered by Mr. Bunyan requesting that the crew of firemen from the Hilltop station be transferred to the Gallia street house with the pump on account of their being more familiar with handling the machine was passed but it was later stated that the proposed change was wholly within the province of the safety director and fire chief.

Hilltop Crew Will Not Be Changed
Chief Leedom was of the opinion that to make a change would be unwise as the Hilltop crew is unfamiliar with the location of fire plugs and other conditions in the business section.

A petition was presented from Third street citizens voicing their protest against Louis Azarch constructing a new junk shop on the street and legislation introduced by Member Westphal was passed restricting the operation of junk shops in residential sections of the city.

An ordinance was passed as an emergency measure creating the position of bailiff of the municipal court and providing that the appointee shall be a member of the police force and receive the same salary.

Member Westphal called attention that he had received many complaints about The Portsmouth Telephone Company tearing up streets and laying and filling to restore the thoroughfares to their former condition. The matter was referred to the Service Director for a report.

An ordinance was passed giving authority to rent quarters in the Turkey building for the engineering department and appropriating $15 to pay the rent.

On a motion by Mr. Weghorst, the service director was instructed to get in touch with the railroad company looking to the improvement of the various crossings in the city.

A communication was read from The Portsmouth Street Railway & Light Company stating that 21 of the 25 are lights ordered by the old council had been placed, it having been decided that the other two were not needed.

An estimate was ordered prepared on the cost of constructing a sanitary sewer on Walnut street, Plum to Chestnut, and to the dissection members Westphal and Weghorst declared in favor of building all sanitary sewers on the assessment plan and urged its adoption. No action was taken.

Chairman George M. Osborn of the finance committee, reported that his committee had not completed its work and was unable to submit a complete report on the semi-annual budget.

An ordinance was passed appropriating funds to take care of the city pay roll and the general appropriation ordinance will be presented. It was stated at a special meeting to be held on Jan. 30.

Non Surgical Treatment

Doctor Van Amburg does not resort to surgical operations when treating chronic diseases—while he does not claim that all diseases can be cured without surgical operations, he does claim that a vast number are better treated by other methods. Many people might be saved from dangerous operations by taking the treatment used by him.

Drugless Method of Treatment

Doctor Van Amburg does not depend on medicines alone—many of his patients do not take a single dose of medicine, neither does he resort to Osteopathic Chiropractic or Christian Science Treatment.

Surely it was a happy day when a new era in treating the sick and afflicted, when the drugless method as used by Doctor Van Amburg, was perfected by many of the greatest minds of the medical profession the world over. Thoroughly tested in thousands of cases its merits no longer need individual endorsement, it stands forth as one of the brightest lights of modern therapeutics.

Up To Date

Disabled Soldiers App'y To Red Cross For Assistance

Do you know one out of every three men drafted for military service during the war was rejected as unfit? And do you know that the number in Ohio rejected as unfit ran as high as forty-one per cent? Do you know that two hundred thousand adults die every year of tuberculosis in the United States? The Red Cross nurses visited from a clinic standpoint, if for no other reason, the blind, the tubercular, the diseased of poor, and ignorant families must sooner or later become the charges of the country. A few dollars spent for preventive measures that every man, woman and child in the Red Cross is given a square deal in the game of American citizenship. That is its platform, its program—and you are going to be asked to help to carry it out. Will you?

If you are skeptical as to the need of such service in Belmont county, ask any of the Red Cross people here about it, and you will soon be convinced not only that there is a need, but an imperative need for work of this kind. There are hundreds of cases of tuberculosis which might be cured, if taken care of in time. There are children whose eyesight is being destroyed simply because their parents are too ignorant to realize their condition. Money contributed to the welfare work that the Red Cross is doing in the county is money well invested from a civic standpoint, if for no other reason. The blind, the tubercular, the diseased of poor, and ignorant families must sooner or later become the charges of the country. A few dollars spent for preventive measures that every man, woman and child in the Red Cross is given a square deal in the game of American citizenship. Hard Lot For Multi-Mil Lonaire in Germany

BERLIN.—The lot of the multi-millionaire in Germany will be a hard one under the new emergency laws and income and inheritance taxes. Dr. Pinner, financial writer of the Berlin Tageblatt, estimates that under the new laws, a man with a net income of 10,000 marks would be reduced to 3,114 marks. This would mean that the state had taken nearly 7,000 marks from the man's income.

2:35 o'clock, the accident happened on the curve about 150 yards from the N. & W. station at Scitoville. Luckily no one was killed, persons in the front part of the street car having narrow escapes from being killed when the heavy traction car, ploughed its way into the lighter street car. The traction car stopped only when the heavy frame timber under the street car came in contact with the front trucks of the traction car.

Both cars were rounding the curve at a fair speed, the motorman always slowing up on this curve. The steel structure of the traction car saved it, the steel making splinters out of the wood of the street car. The front vestibule of the street car was wiped away, the front end of the traction car going up into the street car as far as the second window. The roof of the street car was lifted up, and it slid up over the roof of the traction car. So great was the shock when the cars came together that two inch timbers in the back end of the Scitoville car were broken when Conductor Tipton was thrown against the supports to the blind behind the motorman.

The sides of the street car went back on each side of the traction car to the big door opening into the men's compartment of the car.

Fragments of the front vestibule of the street car were sent flying back through the car, passengers being bruised when struck by the wood. The controlling box in the rear end of the street car was jarred loose.

The heavy traction car was raised slightly off its front trucks when it went into the street car, but neither car was derailed.

The steel frames of the front windows of the traction were bent and the glass windows were smashed. The steel supports of the fender on the traction car were badly twisted.

Motorman Ethington does not have it clear in his mind yet just how the accident happened. It came so quickly that he does not know how he was hurt, how he got out, or who got him out. Ethington was probably knocked back into the car with wreckage from the vestibule. He escaped with no broken bones, but had two severe scalp wounds and an injured left foot. After being assisted from the wreckage he went to the office of Dr. F. M. Stewart in Scitoville, where his injuries were dressed. One scalp wound was about five inches long and one over his left temple was about two inches long. A number of stitches being necessary to close the cuts which had the appearance of being caused by timber. His left foot was pierced by a small iron rod, the iron going into the foot just below the ankle bone and coming out of the bottom of the foot just in front of the heel. He also suffered from concussion of the brain and keeps asking questions as to what happened.

Dorothy Burns, nine-year-old girl, was near the front of the Scitoville car and was on his way home from an errand to the city. He was caught by the wreckage, his leg being held against the seat by heavy timbers. Conductor Tipton and a passenger, J. R. Woodman, helped get the girl out. He kept crying for his mother, and the attention of the less seriously wounded were called to him by his crying.

The boy was taken to the office of Dr. W. G. Cheney, New Boston, where Dr. Cheney took nineteen stitches to close a serious wound across his stomach. He also had cuts and bruises on his face. His father, Dennis Burns, was called from the Drew shoe factory and he accompanied the boy home from the physician's office. The lad was plucky and fought against going under an anesthetic when the stitches were taken.

Glady's Whit, Scitoville girl, was on the car seat next to the Burns boy. She was thrown from her seat and had to be assisted from the car. She said last night that it all happened so quickly that she did not see how the Burns boy was caught.

Willie Newman and his wife were on their way home to Scitoville and were about middle ways of the street car. Glass cut Mr. Newman on the head, a 2 1/2 inch gash requiring several stitches. A three inch gash over his left ear also needed sewing up. Dr. Stewart attending Mr. Newman and his wife. They walked to the office of Dr. Stewart. Mrs. Newman was injured about the hips. She suffered from a general shaking up and nervousness.

PODOJAX

LIVER AND STOMACH

Fred Shope, Scitoville car passenger, considers himself lucky to escape with a strained back, sustained when he was thrown from his seat. He went to the office of Dr. J. W. Hutebun, Scitoville.

J. R. Woodman, Scitoville car passenger, was thrown from his seat among the wreckage and after getting out helped get the wreckage away from the Burns boy. An hour later he went to the office of Dr. T. H. McKinn, where it was discovered that he had a laceration of the left shoulder. His right thumb was bruised and he suffered bruises about the left side.

Two traveling men on the street car were shaken up and went back to the city as soon as our gathered up all the clothes he had in a suit case, the suit case being torn to pieces in the wreck.

Three Taken To Hospital

Main line street car motorman Ben Osborn, William Rice and Let Dillow, Scitoville, were passengers on the street car. Their injuries being considered the most serious. Lynn's ambulance was called and the three were taken to Hempstead Hospital. Drs. Benoit and Hutebun attending them.

Dillow recently suffered an injury to his side at the steel plant and was on his way home from Dr. H. A. Schirmer's office when he got mixed up in this accident. He lives at Castle Hill, Scitoville, and last night at the hospital could not talk of the accident on account of his jaws being bandaged.

"I was standing up in the front end of the Scitoville car when I noticed the traction car coming west on the same track as we were traveling east. I started to run towards the rear of the car, but before I had made much headway I was thrown over two seats and when they picked me up, I in a dazed condition I was sitting in some woman's lap," Ben Osborn, veteran motorman, said last night at the hospital.

"I was on my way to Scitoville on an errand for a friend, so you see I was doing a good Samaritan act when I was hurt. Of course I had no idea that a traction car was coming west on our track, and I almost lost my breath when I dove in sight. When the cars crashed head on the noise was deafening, as the heavier traction car ploughed its way through the lighter Scitoville car. Screams placed the air and for a short while I thought several passengers would be killed. Despite my injuries, I assisted in taking care of others until they bundled me into an ambulance and rushed me to Hempstead hospital."

Osborn has been in the employ of the street railway company for 12 years. "I am employed in the N. & W. shops and was on my way home when the crash came," William Rice said last night in the hospital. "I was pretty well up in front, and it is a miracle to me how I escaped. A shower of broken glass fell all around me. I tried to help others who had been injured, but I soon found I had suffered a broken arm."

Was Coming Back From Son's Wedding

Mrs. Philomena Schwamberger and Mr. Fitch were passengers on the traction car. Mrs. Schwamberger had been in the village to attend the wedding of her son Harry to Miss Isabelle Jenkins and was on her way home. She was thrown against the store in the traction car, her nose being broken. She went to the office of Dr. Hutebun, where an examination showed that she was also suffering with bruises about her right side and back. She is lodged at the home of her son, Phil Schwamberger, Scitoville.

Fitch was in the men's compartment of the traction car and was thrown against a small iron rod which punctured his forehead between the eyes. He went to the office of Dr. Stewart.

Motorman Curran, on the traction car, remained in the front of his car and was cut by glass. An hour later he discovered one of his coat pockets filled with broken glass.

Conductor Gray was thrown down in the car by the impact and sustained bruises and slight cuts.

Traction crew Motorman Rob Strother and Conductor Fred Ashley were going to Scitoville to take charge of the wrecked car, this being the last trip of the day for Curran and Gray. Ashley and Strother were slightly cut and bruised.

Shortly after a report of the accident reached the office of the Portsmouth Street Railway and Light Company, Raymond York and Hugh H. Higgins, officials of the company, hurried to the scene and ordered the track cleared at once. Another street car was put in use on the Scitoville line and made trips regularly from the New Boston station to the scene of the wreck. Scitoville passengers walking the remainder of the distance to the village. The other traction car made its usual trips to and from Iron-ton to the scene of the wreck.

Of the street car, the only thing left was the rear vestibule and two trucks, part of the sides and heavy floor timbers.

It did not take long to clear the way for the morning of the two wrecked cars which were taken away on their own power to the West End car barn. They made the trip over the city tracks about ten o'clock.

Today only one car was in use on the traction line between New Boston and Iron-ton, a three hour, schedule being maintained. Within the next few days company officials hope to have another traction car ready for the line and they will then go back to their former schedule.

According to company officials today, a careful investigation will be made before they try to place the blame for the accident. There were many rumors about last night as just how the accident happened, some placing the blame on the street car crew and others placing the blame on the traction car crew.

IS WORTH THE MONEY

THE manager of the Chamber of Commerce, in introducing himself at the Wednesday luncheon, struck a dominant note, when he said that if such organizations did nothing else, they would be of inestimable service because it brought men together, shoulder to shoulder, as the citizens of Portsmouth then were and gave them occasion to know each other.

That is true, entirely true. The reason why Portsmouth is different from other towns is that owing to her peculiar location and building her citizens have been thrown more often and in closer contact with each other. We venture the assertion that in no other town of equal size do half so many people know each other as here. And the big thing, that which the chamber is helping along most pleasantly is each member knowing others. Why, there isn't a one but that will admit he has met a dozen "new people" whom he found most likeable and rubbed elbows with a dozen others that he didn't understand at all that he will now grasp unconditionally as splendid fellows. Seventy-five per cent of our prejudices are born of ignorance and misunderstanding and disappear like the fogs they are when we become acquainted. It is acquaintance that makes the public spirit. It is the thing that makes Portsmouth go out and do the right thing so easily. When we get the right measurement of that spirit then we will do big things—to ourselves. Our fault—some might call it a virtue—is that we are too modest as a community, we haven't got civic pride. We do not place a high enough valuation on ourselves and the town.

We just have got to learn to blow our own horn, to blow it long and loud and all the time. Just think, we were so inept at that and consequently so lacking in self-esteem that for years we dubbed along here with a little dinky board of trade that was constantly scrambling around, after a few memberships at $5 per to keep up some sort of an organization and here in three days, as successor to it we organize a chamber of commerce with a thousand and a half members with annual dues of $25. So after all doing things resolves itself into the simple proposition of believing you can do them. Those forum meetings are going to make us think and so make us do. The member by your side will tell you "we can do it," you will say, "of course, we can do it." You tell each other and, lo! it is consummated.

THE MANNER OF THE MAN

ADMIRAL SIMS, who kicked up such a row because his recommendations for awards for naval services were not accepted without change, elimination or addition, glimpses that sort of character he is by coolly telling the senate committee, which promptly rushed to an investigation, that in his mind his recommendations must stand and even though the committee itself found for some variations, it would not make a particle of difference in his opinion.

Not to our enlightenment does the doughty Admiral reveal the source of his infallibility, tell us why he is altogether and unfailingly right, while the secretary of the navy, or the naval board wrong pretty much all the way through and intimate the committee is likely to go wrong also.

Just harking back a bit, however, did not Admiral Sims, during the war, let get through the lines news that set the whole world by the ears when it was discovered to be a colossal mistake? He may plead that was the work of one of his subordinates, but that is no excuse in one that assumes the position he does; he ought not alone to make no mistakes himself, he ought not to let others, under him, commit them. And he had no subordinates, whose vessels were sunk by German submarines? Infallibility should not have permitted them to be in command.

Yes, if Admiral Sims has stirred up a mess for others he has got in a pretty pickle himself.

The New York Herald certainly faces the future cheerfully. It copies a number of excerpts from contemporaries, in which commenting on the ownership of the paper passing to Frank A. Munsey they sing its requiem in the inference that the new ownership means it is to be consolidated with the Sun.

No reader of signs and omens, but it is plain enough there are certain loud-mouthed agencies in this blessed land that are shifting around to a position towards the Bolshevik that is diametrically opposite to that they were vociferating before the last moon rose.

The silver lining is always there, if we can only see it. While the legislature is fussing around over taxation measures it, at least, isn't doing anything else.

And for varieties sake here is another kind of weather.

Rather sorry to admit, but according to official figures Missouri dailies of proven circulation, exceed in the aggregate those of Ohio, a difference all the more striking because Ohio has a million more inhabitants. Nevertheless, let it also be known that if every Buckeye paper covered its territory as closely and completely as does The Times, we'd beat those Pukes better than two to one.

SHE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

As the time for our leaving New York draws near I sometimes have a pang. People play such perverse tricks. People who hate the country have to live in it, and the poor things who are lived in city tenements can't get a glimpse at the green fields. But suppose Athens is right. I ought to be more than willing, since my sacrifice means Jim's success, and that is more than most wives have to show for giving up their own wishes.

"At least you won't have to slave and pluck," Athens reminds me whenever I fall into a despondent mood. "Living in the country poor is one thing. Lying there on a comfortable income, remember, is quite another. There are precious few things you can't buy with money, my child, no matter what people say to the contrary. You will have a delightful home, with fireplaces and porches and neat lawns, and a garden to dig in. You won't have to drag water from a well or take your baths in the wash-tub on the kitchen floor. You will have your little car to run around in. You'll be the social leader of the place."

"Oh, rubbish!" I cried. "What's that to me?"

"When you get there you'll find it's quite a bit of comfort. Any normal woman gets pleasure from a sense of power and position. You'll be the big frog in the pond. You'll be interested in yourself in factory conditions if you don't care for the social end of things."

"You talk as if I didn't know what living in a small town is! Didn't I regulate in Centerville all my life? Didn't I know the pettiness and limitations?"

"Centerville is a very different proposition from Hummums, Corners, Centerville is in the middle west, where you have altogether a different standard. People think differently, act differently, live differently. They are narrow gauge because there is no big city anywhere near to give them advantages. I'd rather live at Hummums, Corners, a tiny hamlet, and be a million miles from New York than in a half-position town like Centerville that swaggers about thinking it's a regular place!"

"Yes, I can see that," I agreed, feeling a little cheered. "I'd rather have the wide world than a near town, with an opportunity to get away from it. Still, Athens—could you just simply hand it leaving New York? I sometimes think I'd rather be unmarried and miss all that marriage means, and have absolute freedom like the girls in the flat downstairs, than be tethered even by love."

"Oh, stop fussing! If you were free of marriage you wouldn't do any more snoring than you can do now. The girls downstairs are enjoying you. Whatever one hasn't got one wants. You're a fuss!"

"It seems to me, Athens, that the people that aren't suited to marriage are always married, and the nice, home-loving, gentle, maternal, amiable girls that are cut out to be wives spend their lives in offices and bookshops. I know nature intended me to be an aeroplane and marriage has made me a submarine!"

"Then be thankful for your peculiar eyes and ears alert in every direction, be content to stay submerged for while; get your ammunition ready; then shoot your little stories and novels—and you'll soon be free to come to the surface and stay there! Married or single, nothing gives you power to 'scur' like having a trade of your own—and the money, my child, that goes with it!"

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Edgar Allan Poe will come back to Broadway after 110 years in the series of plays, dramatized from his weird tales, which are to be put on shortly at one of the "Intimate" little theatres off the Hudson. The Spanish novelist, who died much to awaken America to the importance of dramatizing Poe.

Wherever he went or spoke, the writer paid tribute to Poe's work and declared that Poe was as famous in Europe and South America as Lincoln and Washington. It will be remembered that Poe's father, David Poe, and his mother were actor folk and so the blood in Edgar, like the blood in all of us, returns to its fountains.

Poe was a child of the footlights, which were at the time his parents were actors a row of spluttering gas jets. He was traveling with his parents from stage to stage when he was orphaned at the age of 3. On the 6th of September 1820, the year of Edgar's birth, the New York theatre far down town now, was opened for the winter season with "Lewis Castle Specter" and "Buckskin's Romp" titles that have a double sound.

The father and mother took parts in each play. Later David Poe was heard in a play called "Fortune's Foe," another prophetic title for the colorfully inclined, for Fortune had, ironically, a great frolic with the destiny and doing of the American poet.

Among the tales that are announced to be put on shortly are "Bon-Bon," "The Gold Bug," "The Tell-Tale Heart" and "Eleonora." Later there will follow "The Cask of Amontillado," "The Fall of the House of Usher," "Ligeia" and "The Association." These tales are of the essence of Poe, and are of an imagination that was unique and phosphorescent.

To me, Poe was the greatest of all short story tellers. His very life was an excursion in the weird, stumbling with the keys to strange doors in houses that discolored at dawn. The tale is told that Poe many years ago, wild, disheveled, bruised and wide-eyed burst into the home of John Sartain, the painter.

He said he had seen on the walls of the county prison, where he had spent the previous night, a host of angels clad in moonlight that blew from wreathed trumpets with plans toward the heavens. He was given three slugs of brandy. It was, of course, hallucination—but of a fearful kind. He had seen the torch, that flames in an imperial solitude in the summits of the northern seas, so does Edgar Allan Poe reign today in the human imagination.

Fifth Avenue is to be invaded by the drama. The site is the former home of William C. Whitney. It will be a thirty story business building with a theatre and concert hall on the ground floor.

ground floor. Directly across 57th street is the Cornelius Vanderbilt residence, occupying the block north of 58th street. Across the way is the old Collis P. Huntington estate. Not far away are the Hotels Plaza, Savoy and Netherlands.

Crooks are now using wood alcohol drunks to poison their victims. In the East Side and Truderdon drive wood alcohol is being substituted for "knock-out drops" which were comparatively harmless. One man, who had a salary roll with him, was stopped by three men and invited to take a drink after each had apparently taken a drink. The victim is now in a hospital blind and paralyzed. Experts say that so clever is the deception that they are drinking poisoned drinks until the first stages of the illness come upon them. Still there is a bright side to it according to the prohibitionists who declare that deaths from properly made whiskey during the same time would have been greater than they have been from wood alcohol and one Brooklyn prohibitionist writes to the World that the city should park off a space where the young men could see the wood alcohol victims writhe and die as a lesson of the folly of disobeying the law.

A Day From Paradise

(By Arthur Wallace Peach)

So much of beauty crowned this day,
So much of joy by love conferred,
From dawn's bright greeting from the hills
To twilight's tender word.

So much of happiness for me,
So much of happiness for you,
Its moments hint a mystery,
And I have found the clue.

We buy of life some happy days,
With toil and tears the bitter price;
This is God's gift and has no fee—
A day from Paradise!

Traveling in a Circle
Jehu Johnson was a colored printer in a Southern town. Business had been good during the winter and Jehu had saved twenty-five cents. With spring came a merry-go-round to the town square, and one day Jehu put his savings in his pocket and stole away from the shop. He was soon on the merry-go-round having the time of his life.

Mrs. Johnson, missing her wayward man, followed him to the town square, and when Jehu finished his last ride, and his last nickel, he stepped off directly in front of his wife and his spirits fell. "Jehu!" she exclaimed, "you shiftness nigger! Jes like youse always done. Here-youse been travellin' and travellin' and you gets off jes where you started from. No wonder you never gets nowhah!"

Yes, sir, but—
"Then please treat me as kindly as you would a colored man with a wooden leg."

Maybe—Maybe Not
"There are two sides to every question," remarked the ready made philosopher.

"There's two sides to a hickory nut," rejoined Farmer Cornstossel, "an outside and an inside, but only one of 'em is worth payin' any attention to."

SIR OLIVER LODGE, noted English scientist who has attracted world-wide attention by his investigations of spiritualism and his book "Raymond," is now in the United States for a lecture tour. It is his first trip to the U. S. since 1884.

Sir Oliver is more than six feet tall, has a grey beard and is sixty-eight years old. His father was a physician of limited means, and he was destined for a business career, but he switched to scientific studies, and for more than twenty years has been associated with the English Society for Psychical Research.

In his book "Raymond, or Life After Death," which he published two years ago, Sir Oliver describes how he was able to communicate with his son, Capt. Raymond Lodge, who died on the battlefield.

Sir Lodge expresses surprise that America accepted prohibition. "England and Scotland are not ready for it. I'd rather each individual for himself as far as bottle spirits are concerned," he says.

Lady Lodge, a dainty, sweet little woman, is accompanying Sir Oliver on the trip.

Now is my chance," thought Billy, to kiss her, and she can't make a fuss before the boys. So up he walked and kissed her straight on the mouth. Nanny was so surprised that she gave him a startled look, turned her back and walked into the shed again.

"How is that for a cold mub?" said Tim. "Let us harness them together and see what they will do."

BILLY WHISKER

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Mike O'Hara, became the possessor of Billy Whisker, he felt as proud as a peacock, for he knew he had made a good bargain and got the best of Tim Hookey for once in his life, and this pleased him mightily as Tim generally got the best of him in a trade.

When he reached his own yard, he called over the fence for Tim to come and see what Billy and Nanny would do when they first saw each other. Tim accepted the invitation with alacrity and jumped over the fence just in time to see Nanny walk out of the shed, as they thought to make the acquaintance of Billy for the first time.

The goats bleated and squealed, wiggled and beaked, but nothing alarmed the boys and they kept on up and the two goats were harnessed up tight and strong to the cart, and then the fun began.

Mike jumped in and took the reins and Timmy followed after, and out of the yard and down the road they went, sending a cloud of dust after them.

From all sides went up the cry: "Look at Mike O'Hara, he has got a new goat!" And from front yard, back yard and small place the children ran to see the fun.

All went well for a quarter of a mile, when Tim, tired of running on behind, jumped in with Mike. Billy felt the additional weight in a minute and he bleated to Nanny that he would be switched if he would pull Tim Hookey, the boy who sold him so cheaply.

"You will have to," said Nanny. "No, I won't," said Billy. "You just watch and see what I will do! But you must promise to do quickly what I tell you to, or I can't do it, because I am hitched up with you; so Nanny, you will have to follow me and not pull back."

"All right," said Nanny, "I will do whatever you tell me to."

"Very well. Do you see that post ahead?"

"Yes," answered Nanny.

"Now go slowly until we get within ten feet of it; then take a long breath and run straight into the water as far as you can go. Don't stop or turn to right or left no matter how hard they pull or scream. Keep right on and you will give Mr. Tim a ducking he won't forget. I'll teach him to stay out of any cart I am pulling!"

(You'll learn tomorrow what happened to Tim and Mike.)

Quite Elated
"Your wife seems highly pleased."

"Yes, she bought ten shares of each stock at 2 cents a share and it has now gone up to 3."

Something To Be Amused At
"What's the new cook so amused over?"

"She's looking at the diploma I got at cooking school," faltered the bride. "I hung it in the kitchen."

What Do You Suppose?
"I've asked Jack Dempsey to assist at my reception."

"What's he going to do?"

"Serve the punch, of course."

Had Nerve, Alright
"That fellow, Mobbs, is very optimistic, isn't he?"

"Yes; sort of chap would go into a restaurant without a penny, order a dozen oysters and expect to find a pearl to pay his bill."

Know The Trick, Too
At a dinner given by the prime minister of a little kingdom, which shall be nameless, a distinguished diplomat complained to his host that the minister of justice, who had been sitting on his left, had stolen his watch.

"Ah, he shouldn't have done that," said the prime minister, in tones of annoyance; "I will get it back for you."

Sure enough, toward the end of the evening the watch was returned to its owner.

"And what did he say?" asked the diplomat.

"He," cautioned the host, glancing anxiously about him. "He doesn't know that I've got it back."

No Horses There
The new servant girl was told to order the family vegetables at the green grocer's. After looking what was asked for, the tradesman inquired:

"Won't your mistress want any horse-radish today? Some just in, nice and fresh."

Tossing her head indignantly, Mary Jane replied:

"No, indeed; she don't want no such thing. Mister keeps a motor car!"

We Know Some, Too
Some persons cannot see what pleases those who mind their own business first in living.

Mighty Come In Handy
"Do you think a college education helps a man in business?"

"Not right away," answered Mr. Austin Sims. "But after a man gets rich enough to indulge in litigation school training will help a great deal in answering the lawyer's questions."

Maysville Teams Play Here Friday Night

The Portsmouth High basketball team will be at the jumping post for the first home game of the season tomorrow night when the red and blue basketballers cross paths with the Maysville High quintet.

The local lads have practiced diligently this week, and with the extra feature of having practiced with the South Webster High's five Tuesday, Coach Hess' squad feels confident of "copping the bacon" in the first appearance this season before local basketball lovers.

TURNER HAS HAD INTERESTING CAREER

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—Announcement that Terry Turner is coming back to Columbus to play baseball recalls to old-time fans the fact that he is the only real outstanding star of the national pastime who was developed here and sent to the big league to make good the very first season and stick with one club for well nigh two decades.

Many other players who had seen duty here went higher to make good, but the case of Turner was unusual in that he was brought here from the Ashland semipro team as a mere lad and after one year of wonderful baseball in the Association was purchased by Cleveland and continued his sensational work there. Turner naturally has had a lot of his speed but he still is a valuable baseball player for a minor league assignment.

Terry certainly was a sensation in his day and it may be said, besides, that he put a very large feather in the cap of Bobby Quinn, who was just beginning his larger career in sport. Quinn, by selecting this kid and his making good, put over the first of many similar displays of good judgment since then.

BILLY DOYLE WINS IMPORTANT SUIT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 22.—William T. Doyle, of Portsmouth, O., former football coach, won an $850 verdict against the Philadelphia National League Ball Club in common pleas court today. Doyle sued for back salary and interest alleged due him on a contract with the Phillies which was cancelled by the club when national "work or fight" order was issued in August, 1918.

The suit was regarded as opening a new chapter in the history of the "work or fight" order as applied to baseball contracts.

In instructing the jury the court said the order did not excuse the breaking of a contract as the latter contained no release clause. The jury was told to deduct Doyle's earnings in a similar suit during the period his contract had run. The defense of the club was that the season closed about September 22 and was prohibited from employing any one subject to the order.

The present wave of feeling being stirred up by the posts of the American Legion against Jack Demisey, world heavyweight champion, because of his war record, has caused fans to talk of a possible intervention between Bob Martin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, European title holder. Martin served as a soldier in France as a member of the "bob-nailed brigade." Then he fought his way (in the ring) through all the good heavyweights the army produced.

U. S. IS CONSTITUTIONALLY DRY BUT UNCLE SAM'S RISKY SLEUTHING

While the United States is constitutionally dry now federal officials realize that it will be many a moon before the present supply of liquor runs out and before illicit stills are wiped out. Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, and his force are busier than ever ferreting out violators of the dry laws. One of the photos above shows Special Revenue Agents Edward Charleston, at left, and R. W. Glass of San Francisco, at a still they discovered in operation on the Presidio reservation.

Tyler Should Help Cubs

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The services of George Tyler, star left-handed pitcher of the Chicago Nationals, have been saved through extraction of nearly all his teeth. It became known today with the announcement from William Veck, club president, that Tyler would be one of the vanguard of four to go to Hot Springs, Arkansas, February 10 or 11.

Throughout last season Tyler was on the sick list, pains in his shoulder and back, rendering his mount work ineffective. He was almost perfect physically, but was unable to have his teeth extracted.

MASONIC LEAGUE

NORWOODS WIN TWO

By the hair of the chiny chin chin the Norwoods kept their heads above water in the Masonic league race, last night, at the Play House, where they managed to trim the Turkeys two out of three. They did this after a terrific effort. When the teams entered the third game, each had one game in its credit. Whereupon the clubs clashed in desperation and for ten wonderful frames battled each other for who had the can in the pipe's tail. Result at the close of the game was a score, each team having totalled 746. Panderanum broke loose—players forgot such a thing as decorum and interest was rampant off like a bunch of fire crackers on the morning of the glorious Fourth. Thomas Jefferson Dwyer, the supposedly weak star of the Norwood gang, who had come through with the greatest ease of his early experience and who had kept his team in the running by several four-pipe shots with the house full, was being overhauled by his team mates and jelled above like a ride in a Ford down an unpopulated alley. Tea held up during the roll as did the other members of the Norwood brigade. The Turkeys leaped around like they had received the ace on Thanksgiving morning, making but 32 pipe, while the Norwoods hung up 52, giving them the game and series. It was a battle, fierce and while the Turkeys totalled a lot more pipe than the Norwoods, they did not use the judgment of the clock. The race in the league is still in the diamonds and Norwoods displayed first place, with the Lumberjacks breathing heavily and close by.

WIRE FENCE BESTS BIG BUCK ELK

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 22.—The big buck elk, king of Scotty Phillips' herd for more than a decade, has fought its last battle. A barbed wire fence was the victor in the struggle to the death.

The buck was absolute in its domination of the Laffan and elk herds. Several bull buffaloes of the largest ranch in America attempted to match their strength against The King but they were ignominiously routed.

Finally, the elk took a violent dislike to the heavy wire fence surrounding the ranch. It attempted to clear it but the fence was too high and the elk landed squarely on the top barbs. After a terrific struggle the elk tore itself from the angle of wire and died of its wounds.

No Difference in Trade Figures

OTTAWA, Ont.—Practically no difference has been officially noted between Canadian business for 1919 and 1918. Trade figures from the past year are semi-officially given as $2,500,000,000. Official figures for the first 11 months of 1919 showed the total to be slightly over the two billion dollar mark.

Her husband was arrested and all the stolen costumes were recovered, some of them the worse for wear.

Smith College Girls Brave Jack Frost TO TAKE PART IN ANNUAL ICE CARNIVAL

The girls of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., do not wait for the balmy days to hold their outdoor fetes and pageants. Instead they have the winter blasts and hold an ice carnival every year. Secret meetings are held every night while fingers are busy cutting and sewing novel costumes. Then clothes closets and trunks are locked until a perfect skating day arrives when the costumes are brought forth and donned and the snow and ice frolic begins. The carnival was a great success this year; the girls claim it was "the best ever."

Schirrmann Opposes Increase And Lively Tilt Is Staged; McGowan Claim Is Paid

Considerable "fireworks" marked a rather busy and stormy session of City Council last night at which much business of importance was transacted in the way of legislation passed or put in the "hopper" for future passage.
 A lively row was precipitated on the floor when Mayor William N. Gableman recommended the restoration of the Safety Director's salary to $12,000 a year and an increase to $200 a month the salary of the superintendent and engineer of the water works, a total increase of $1,800 a year, after pointing out that the administrative branch of the city government had voluntarily stricken from their budgets now being prepared salaries which would make a net saving of $2,500, including the salary of a mayor's clerk which position was abolished. The mayor declared that if the Safety Director properly looked after his duties that the saving to the city would more than make up for the increase in service rendered in a few months time and he appealed for a chance to show what good results could be obtained with a real Safety Director on the job. Member Charles Schirrmann in opposing the Mayor's plan asserted that he could select a competent man that would take the job at the present salary of $300 and when the Chief Executive demanded of him to name his man, Schirrmann offered to resign as councilman and take the job himself. "Not on your life" he retorted the mayor and then followed a sharp tilt between the pair in which some warm talk was indulged in before a rap from the verbal officer put an end to the verbal clash. The matter was then thrashed out in the general discussion which followed and resulted in a victory for the mayor when it came to a test of ordering the solicitor to bring in legislation to increase the salary of the Safety Director to $12,000. Members Osborn, Chabot, Westphal and Westphal favoring the proposal while Runyan and Schirrmann opposed it and Bennett did not vote. The proposed increase for the water works superintendent and engineer will be taken care of, it was stated, in the next annual appropriation ordinance now being prepared.
